Chemistry Department Physical Sciences I

*L*ocated on the corner of Big Springs Road and East Campus Drive, the Physical Sciences I Building is one of UCR's newest state-of-the-art research facilities and the new home of the Department of Chemistry. This building, which was completed in January 2005, was constructed to the highest standards to attract students and faculty, and was designed to adapt to evolving changes in program demands and teaching/research methodologies. It contains office space and research labs for faculty, upper division class labs, as well as the Analytical Chemistry Instrumentation Facility.
